RE: Dillard, Annabelle
vs
James
F 2643/63

Dear Dr. Paster:

On 10/3/66 James Dillard was remanded to your hospital for a diagnostic evaluation. He had been examined at Family Offenses Clinic on 9/26/66 and as a result of their recommendations he was sent to your hospital. That report is enclosed.

Parties were known to Family Court on a petition of support in 1963. On 2/20/64 a support order was made. Respondent is a Transit Policeman whose history of payments on the support order, was very poor. There were frequent court appearances with subsequent repercussions from the respondent in the form of telegrams, letters and phone calls deriding the court decisions. (A sample of some of many telegrams & Letters sent to this court are enclosed).

Parties were married 3/10/43 and of this union 2 children James Jr. 8/4/46 and Carol 3/20/49. James is mentally retarded, Carol attend Parochial H.S. Petitioner is employed with N.Y.C. Dept. of Parks and hopes to teach eventually. Parties separated in 1964. Parties constantly harass each other and financial matters were a constant irritation.

Since 1964 Mr. Dillard's emotional status has deteriorated. He has become more preoccupied with properties he owns explaining his inability to manage them by focusing blame on the court and his wife. There have been frequent threats both to the life of his wife and court personnel.

Re: James Dillard, Sr.
Docket # P 2614/74

Honorable Sir:

Mr. James Dillard was remanded to City Hospital Center at Elmhurst on July 1, 1974 for psychiatric evaluation.

This patient has a long history of marital conflict with several court actions because of non-support. Basically, Mr. Dillard feels very strongly that his wife does not deserve his financial support.

Psychiatric evaluation reveals that this patient does not suffer from any psychiatric disorder. He is coherent and relevant; there is no evidence of impairment of memory; there is no evidence of any thought disorder.

Our professional opinion is that we are dealing here with a pure situational reaction between husband and wife. Perhaps the patient shows some evidence of a characterological disorder.

Respectfully submitted,
